

- Cutting is a type of self-injury used as a coping mechanism for emotional pain, intense anger and frustration.
- The Scream is the popular name for four artworks painted by Edvard Munch, which he called Der Shrei der Natur (The Scream of Nature).
- A common personification of nature is Mother Nature.
- Unpasteurised or organic apple cider vinegar contains mother of vinegar.
- Mother of vinegar has a cobweb-like appearance.
- Spiders exposed to caffeine really mess up the construction of their own webs.
- Caffeine is a stimulant popularly imbibed first thing in the morning.
- Perhaps caffeine helps us to scream less.

Today
 when Mother screamed
 how useless I am
 I was ready
 No cutting remark
 Just cutting

- Cutting school or truancy is also known as: bludging, skipping, skiving, bunking off, wagging and playing hookey.
- Cuttings can be used to propagate a variety of plant types including: rose, gardenia, hydrangea, ivy, hibiscus.
- The first piece of the wedding cake is traditionally cut by the bride with the help of the groom.
 “Hang onto the knife, sister.”
- “I cut therefore I am” is object number 11417 in Brooklyn Art Library’s Sketchbook Project library.
- To cut a corner is to do something the easiest, quickest or cheapest way, often by ignoring the rules.
- Rules are made to be broken, not cut.
- People are made to be loved, not cut.